

Pristine Private School has hosted yet another TEDx event, with the theme of “Metamorphosis: Discover, Nurture, Transform”, on Tuesday, June 13, 2017. “Metamorphosis was central to, not only the theme of the event, but the event itself.” said Ms. Sonika, TEDxPristinePrivateSchool organizer, “Building upon the success of the previous TEDxPristinePristineSchool, the experience has beautifully metamorphosed into something even better than before.”

In accordance with the theme of “Metamorphosis”, the six speakers, which included two renowned outside speakers, Mr. Tariq Qureishy, CEO & founder of MAD talks; and Mogens Jensen, an asthmatic who cycled and ran 11,500 km through 13 countries as well as climbed Mt. Everest without the support of canned oxygen, and four of our very own students, carefully devised their talks to be as effective, informative and engaging as possible. These talks touched upon various subjects ranging from an inspirational venture into the future to deconstructing the social stereotype of how boys shouldn’t be allowed to cry.

This year’s event hoped to replicate the success of the previously held TEDx event and it did so in spectacular fashion, thanks to the hard-working individuals who made all of it possible once more. So, if you attended the event, you were lucky to have the opportunity to see the most remarkable speakers share their ideas on stage with the audience, as well as the rest of the world.

“I’m glad that our school is becoming an established platform for hosting the annual TEDx event,” said Ms. Shagufa Kidwai, Principal of TEDxPristinePrivateSchool, “The speakers’ powerful and impactful discussions at this year’s TEDx shall resonate with the audience for a long time.”
